3. English-taught university courses

With nearly 118,000 enrolled students, Sapienza University of Rome is the largest university in Italy and one of the most prestigious higher education institutions in Europe.

The Department of Political Sciences offers a rich and diverse academic environment. In Italy, the study of Political Science has a long-standing tradition of interdisciplinarity, bringing together perspectives from political science, law, economics, history, and sociology.

The bachelor's and master's degree programmes of the Department are designed to provide students with a solid, high-quality interdisciplinary education, preparing them for successful careers in a wide range of professional fields. Graduates go on to work in international organizations, financial institutions, and national or multinational companies, while the strong analytical and interdisciplinary training also represents a valuable asset for careers in journalism, diplomacy, and politics.

Erasmus+ incoming students can choose from approximately 170 courses offered by the Department of Political Sciences. While most courses are taught in Italian, a growing number of courses are available in English, allowing international students to fully integrate into academic life at Sapienza. Moreover, Erasmus+ students are free to enrich their Learning Agreement by selecting additional English-taught courses offered by other Departments or Faculties of Sapienza University, further expanding their academic experience.

As a result, students benefit from an exceptionally wide range of course options, covering key disciplinary areas such as Political Science and Civics (ISCED 0312), Law (ISCED 0421), and Social and Behavioural Sciences (ISCED 031).

To help you make the most of your academic experience at Sapienza, you will find below an overview of the English-taught courses available within the disciplinary areas of the Department of Political Sciences.
